

Visiting Assistant Professor (VAP) position at Bucknell starting January 2016

The Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering is looking for someone who can teach courses in electrical engineering for the Spring and Fall 2016 semesters. A VAP position at Bucknell is not an adjunct position. Rather it is a one year salaried appointment with full benefits and a $2000 for professional development activities. A VAP will teach six class-equivalents (labs count as half a class) over an academic year. The salary is highly competitive, and previous VAPs have used the year to strengthen their teaching portfolio while moving on to tenure-track positions. VAPs are considered full members of the Bucknell faculty. While the primary responsibilities are teaching in the ECE department, continued scholarship and collaboration are considered essential for VAPs. Past VAPs have utilized the year to boost their teaching credentials and find tenure-track position

Bucknell University, an Equal Opportunity Employer, believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. Bucknell is a private, highly ranked, national liberal arts institution that also offers strong professional programs in engineering, business, education, and music.
